Important message

Did you submit a paper for our annual conference in Zermatt 2010, and did you not yet receive a confirmation of receipt from EADTU? Then please contact the EADTU secretariat (secretariat@eadtu.eu), or send your paper one more time to paperszermatt2010@eadtu.eu. We apologize for the inconvenience.

The scope

The development of institutional strategies and business models for lifelong open and flexible learning, including (international) cooperation between institutions. The conference sessions will cover policy approaches (European, national and institutional), good practices as well as research and innovation in the field of lifelong learning strategies, quality assurance A in e-learning, informal and formal learning, academic cooperation, employment and entrepreneurship.

The themes

This year's main themes are:

Lifelong learning

- Setting the research and innovation agenda for open and flexible teaching and learning in higher education and for lifelong learning;
- Showcases of successful lifelong learning strategies and business models.

Academic Cooperation

- Open educational resources in higher education; cooperation, development and implementation models;
- Academic cooperation: international master spaces and joint doctorates;
- Networked teaching and learning at the undergraduate and graduate level;
- Raising the numbers and quality of mobility of staff and students by the integration of Virtual Erasmus.

Quality Assurance

- Quality assurance in higher education for e-learning;
- Benchmarking the quality of open and flexible learning.

Employability & Entrepreneurship

- Education and training for employment and entrepreneurship through open and flexible provisions, combining informal and formal learning for innovation
